About

I'm a Full Stack Designer with nine years of experience building digital products for a variety of native platforms and the web. My current focus is building highly collaborative teams and processes that enable design and engineering to use the same language and resources, drastically improving the quality and speed of each other's work.

I'm passionate about discovering and solving complex problems and I look forward to discussing how I can add value to your team.
